

Four-legged Walk Cycle - Table of Contents

The Toon Boom Animation Workout Series

Getting Started

- About This Workout
  - Overview
- Workout Content
  - Getting the Workout Material

Part 1: Four-legged Walks

- Understanding How Four-legged Creatures Move
  - Life Drawing for Animation
  - Photo and Video References
- Four-legged Walk Cycle Basics
  - Movement with Two Sets of Legs
  - The Keys
  - Secondary Actions of the Four-legged Walk
- What You've Learned So Far
- What's Next

Part 2: Setting The Walk Cycle Keys

- Before You Begin
  - Opening the Workout Scene
- About Cut-out Animation in Toon Boom Studio
  - The Donkey Cut-out Character
  - Setting Cut-out Animation Preferences
- Beginning the Keyframe Animation
  - Adding Keyframes
  - Adjusting Keyframes
  - Start with the First Key
  - Setting the Second Key
  - Setting Keyframes Three and Four
- Adjusting the Feet for a Pan Background
  - Show/Hide Elements
  - The Onion Skinning Feature
  - Pan Increments
  - Previewing Your Keys
- What You've Learned So Far
- What's Next

Part 3: Inbetweening

- Before You Begin
  - Opening the Workout Scene
- Generating the Inbetweens
  - Modify Some Cut-out Preferences
  - Changing to Non-constant Segments
- Making Adjustments to the Inbetweens
  - Keeping The Feet Aligned
  - Modifying the Inbetweens
- What You've Learned So Far
- What's Next

Part 4: Building the Cycle

- Before You Begin
  - Opening our Workout Project
  - Continuing Part 4 With Your Own Project
- Cycling The Animation
  - Adding Background Elements
  - Removing the Duplicate Keyframe
  - Copy Animation
- Panning the Background Elements
  - Adding a Parent Peg for the Pan
  - Moving the Background Element
- Summary
- What's Next
- Thank You